

lowing. The men tossed the sack into their auto and sped away with it.

The two men, the government says, were Murphy and Cosmano.

Murphy was identified by a number of witnesses who picked him out of hundreds, twice in the city hall, and once in a police court. Cosmano was identified in the lobby of the federal building by a man who said, "One look at him is enough; I'd know him in a million." Northrup said yesterday that Cosmano had wanted to kill this witness.

Geirun was virtually identified by a witness who saw him driving a Marmon car in speedy fashion about two miles from the holdup shortly after it occurred.

Accomplices Charge "Double Cross."

And the two friends of Murphy who are said to have given him the tip have claimed, according to government men, that they were double crossed.

That's what many in the Polk street robbery also say.

Cosmano received about $60,000 of the Polk street loot, Mr. Northrup believes, and the others in the gang—the men who did the work and the men on the inside—got about $13,000 apiece.

"Murphy," he said, "has one chance in a million of keeping out of the penitentiary."

Of the sums recovered $112,900 in cash and bonds was found Monday night in Paul Bolanti, the home of William Dicks, Murphy's father-in-law. Yesterday $1,000 was found in the custody of Paul Bolanti, a friend of Murphy.

About $12,000 has been taken from other friends of Murphy.

Where is the rest of the $380,000 loot? Mr. Northrup believes Murphy has a good idea.

U. S. Plans Indictments.

The government's idea in prosecuting the case will be, it is said, to indict Murphy and Cosmano, "the big fish," on as many counts as possible, while the lesser fry will be indicted merely for conspiracy to rob the mails.

It is hoped in this manner to keep Murphy and Cosmano out of public life for many years.

Murphy has not confessed. He has so far admitted only that he knew what was in the big black trunk that held the $112,900 bonds and money—and that he had stored it in his father-in-law's house to "shield a couple of friends."

"Murphy is a dub," said Mr. Northrup. "He's done things that the average schoolboy wishing to commit a crime would carefully avoid. We don't wish him to confess. We've got enough evidence against him. He even helped to implicate himself."

Two Confessions Cited.

In speaking about his evidence Mr. Northrup referred to the statements made by Ralph Teter, a government mail clerk, and Edward Geirun, Murphy's chauffeur. Geirun was arrested with Murphy and Cosmano Monday afternoon.

Teter was arrested and made a confession two weeks ago. He named Murphy, Cosmano, Geirun, and others. He told the first complete story of the robbery and the disposal of the loot.

When his story had been checked, Big Tim and his lieutenants were arrested. Teter had a good reputation in the service. He had been in ill health and had lost some money.

He happened to meet in Indianapolis one George M. Hecker, alias Bradford, a former railway mail clerk who had served a while in the government disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth.

"I Needed Money, I Tell," Bradford knew Murphy and Cosmano. He had slept in a cell next to theirs in the Cook county jail when they were waiting to be tried for the murder of "Money" Knight. Hecker, or Bradford, met "Big Tim" in Indianapolis. He introduced him to Teter. Murphy asked what Teter was getting in the way of salary.

"Oh, about $30 a month," Bradford said, and Big Tim smiled.

Teter in his confession goes into all this thoroughly.

"They kept after me to go in with them on a mail robbery," he said. "I could find out when a mail train was due and let them know. I was promised lots of money. I needed money, I tell."

"I agreed to come to Chicago. I

"NARY A SQUAWK"

So Says Jaunty Big Tim, "Clearing" Himself and Cosmano.

"The thing that makes me feel bad about this whole business is that everybody thinks I squawked."

It was "Big Tim" Murphy talking. Leaning back in a chair in the United States marshal's office, his 6 foot and more of lanky anatomy were eloquent of imperturbable ease. He puffed his cigar and smiled.

"No, sir, the newspapers said I pulled a confession," he said, "but I didn't. The fellows who did that Polk street job came to me and asked me to take care of the trunk. I did it just as a favor."

An employee of the district attorney's office stepped up to shake Tim's hand with a wish him well. The interview was continually interrupted by such salutations. Many in the federal service, apparently, knew the labor leader and liked him. Big Tim grinned and gave characteristic shrug of his shoulders.

Knew U. S. Was After Him.

"I knew for the last two weeks that the government was trying to give me the rap for that job," he continued. "But I didn't take it on the lamb. Why should I? I knew nobody had anything on me. If I wanted to, I could've taken that trunk out of my hands and the cops would be at me. Thousands of guys around Chicago would jump at the chance to take over a flock of bonds. But they weren't got here about March 22 or March 23."

"What happened?" he was asked. "I was asked to go with Murphy and several other men to the Polk street station."

Gives Tip for Robbery.

Q. Why? A. To see whether this mail trucks were making the trips on Wednesday. You see, I knew they used to carry the valuable registered mail on Wednesday, but I had been laid off for three months on account of sickness. Murphy wanted to be sure about the time for mail shipments.

Q—Any other reason? A—Cosmano and I and several others then looked over the territory around the station, making plans for the robbery.

Q—Was that the only time before the robbery you went to the station? A—No. We went there again to study the place and make arrangements for the robbery and the getaway. Murphy gave me about $200 for coming to Chicago and going to the depot.

Tip of Hat Is Signal.

Q—When did you plan to rob the mails? A—On March 31. I was on the loading platform that day. I was to give the signal by tipping my hat when the truck carrying the mail pouches passed off Polk street and into Federal street.

Q—Did you see Murphy around the station at the time the attempted robbery or at the actual robbery the following Wednesday? A—No; but Cosmano was near there. He was circling around the place in Murphy's big red car.

The robbery was committed on April 6. The five robbers—among them Geirun and Guesenberg—played bull in the vacant lot near by until they got the signal. Only one shot was fired. Geirun's confession corroborated many of the details given by Teter. He said he had stolen the automobile for the robbery job. He said the band had met in the garage back of Paul Bolanti's grocery at 2525 Wallace street and that some of the loot was divided there after the robbery.

Grocer Seized; $1,000 Found.

Bolanti was arrested yesterday afternoon after detectives had found $1,000 in a black box under the counter in his store.

Murphy and Cosmano appeared before Commissioner Glass on a single warrant and their hearing was set for June 25.

There was an argument about fixing the bonds for Cosmano. Mr. Northrup wished them placed at $100,000. Attorney Benjamin P. Epstein declared that figure too high.

"We have evidence Cosmano threatened to kill one of our witnesses," said Northrup. "We have evidence these men planned the robbery deliberately and on orders that their henchmen were to shoot their way to safety if necessary. The bonds are not too high."

The commissioner compromised on $75,000.

Murphy, Cosmano, and Geirun were mine and I wanted to keep my word with those two fellows who are down stairs now, singing like Caruso."

He was alluding to Ralph Teter and George Bradford, then in the postoffice inspector's office on a lower floor. To sing like Caruso, in the Murphyesque argot, is to talk your head off—tell all you know—squawk.

"Any guy that was a man would do the same thing I did last night," continued Big Tim, nodding to a friend. "As soon as I heard of the fix my dad and mother-in-law were in—with the dicks getting a search warrant to frisk the house—I offered to go out with the postoffice inspectors and show 'em the trunk myself. What the hell—they're old people and I didn't want to see them locked up."

Denies Part in Robbery.

So it was that Murphy, according to his story, opened the long black box which contained $112,900 worth of stolen cash and bonds. But he insisted he had nothing to do with the job.

"And I wasn't mixed up in that Pullman mail robbery," he added. "Cosmano didn't help pull it, either."

"Sure, I know who was in on the Pullman job, but is it my business to go and tell the cops what I do?"

"You know this happened at a bad time. My wife's in the hospital. Just had an operation. I'm sorry she's got to stand this humiliation."

BRITAIN STARTS DRIVE FOR PEACE WITH SINN FEIN

Smuts Likely to Make Overtures to Ireland.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LONDON, June 14.—At the same time that the Irish question now is practically sure to be discussed in the imperial council, the government organs are busy creating an atmosphere of peace. It has been suggested that the king, in his speech at Belfast on Wednesday next, will make an offer to the south, but this is unlikely, as it would mean identifying the crown with a party in the quarrel.

It is much more likely that a definite offer will be made to South Ireland through one of the dominion premiers, probably Mr. Smuts, in whom all have confidence.

WHERE IS THAT FIVE CENT FARE? MAYOR IS ASKED

Midnight Fight in Senate on Traction Bill.

BY PARKE BROWN.
Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Amos C. Miller, representing the Chicago Association of Commerce, tonight threw an entirely new light on some of the dangers of Mayor Thompson's "transportation district" bill.

Speaking before the senate committee on utilities, where the bill is pending, Mr. Miller, who is a former president of the Chicago Bar association and an attorney of prominence, charged that the section of the bill providing for a referendum upon the purchase of traction lines in excess of $1,000,000 is not worth the paper it is written on.

He pointed out that this provision refers only to the expenditure of money for the acquisition of traction properties and said that the trustees provided for under the bill could evade this completely by merely paying for the properties with transportation district bonds instead of by cash.

"Even Yerkes Never Dreamed It."

"I see no obstacle," he said, "in the way of their making any sort of a deal for any sort of a price that they might wish and thereby establish a situation that might last 100 years."

"That is a dream so rosy that even Yerkes never dreamed of it."

There were two other speakers before the committee, Mayor Thompson, whose remarks were generalities for the most part and without any connection with the actual provisions of the bill, and Roy D. Kechn, newspaper editor, who expressed the belief that the people of Chicago and Illinois want "government ownership," and said he was not familiar with the Thompson bill.

He denied any responsibility for it.

Mr. Miller was the first speaker and at once asked why the public utilities commission has not established the 5 cent fare in Chicago by merely issuing an order.

"It could do it after a brief hearing," he said, "and since it is such an easy way of getting transportation at cost, it seems to me that the purpose of this measure before you is to furnish transportation below cost and pay the difference by taxation."

Better Use for Public Money.

Pointing out that available public revenues are limited, he asked whether better use cannot be found for them than paying car fare for some of the people. He suggested that Chicago needs more policemen.

"Shall we allow robbery to continue in order to pay some one's car fare?" he asked.

Other questions he asked were these:

"Why is it anybody should want street car service at less than cost?"

"If the public utilities commission can give transportation at cost why should the public go into the transportation business?"

"Has any traction interest opposed this measure? I haven't heard of any."

"Why should Chicago go into a line of business that is getting poorer and poorer every year?"

Cost $45,000,000 in Five Years.

Mr. Miller's estimate of the minimum deficit upon a 5 cent fare basis at the end of the five year period provided by the bill was $45,000,000.

"How would that be raised?" he asked. "By taxes or increased fares? And what would happen in the meantime? If the trustees have exhausted their money raising power in the purchase of the lines, how would they meet the deficit each of those five years, during which there is no provision for raising fares? And the money raising power would be exhausted, for the $45,000,000 in bonds that can be sold by the trustees would not buy the surface lines alone. The plan is not workable."

Mayor Quotes Lincoln.

Mayor Thompson, in addition to generalities, such as an attack on the concentration of wealth in the United States and a quotation from Lincoln that didn't mention traction, attacked Mr. Miller as a resident of Kenilworth who had no business discussing Chicago affairs. He took advantage of the mayor's suggestion that Kenilworth could decide its own fate by forcing an admission that if Kenilworth were included in a transportation district referendum and the majority vote in the entire territory favored the creation of a district Kenilworth would be included within it, although every one of its citizens voted in the negative.

Mayor Thompson was subjected to further sharp questioning. Senator Easton of Streator asking him if he would favor 4 cent, 2 cent and even 1 cent fares if the people voted for it.

Soviet Rule if "People" Ask It.

The answers were in the affirmative and then Easton asked whether he would favor the real soviet idea of free street car service, the cost being paid by taxation.

"If the people voted for it," answered the mayor.

Mr. Thompson was also challenged by Senator Sadler to show that George W. Jackson ever was employed as a traffic engineer by any operating company. There was no direct response. In response to another question, the mayor suggested that he would provide street cars twice as big as the present ones.

The committee took no action, but will meet again tomorrow.

APRIL PRIMARIES BILL IS PASSED BY BOTH HOUSES

Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Small and Mayor Thompson won a partial victory in both houses this morning when they put through bills that change the date of the general primaries and the election of party committeemen from September to April.

The senate bill was denounced by Senator Sadler as an attempt by the city hall to have the 1923 primaries held before the taxpayers had a first hand view of the sweeping increase in taxes that the state and city administrations are handing to the folks.

The senate passed the Meents bill, 28 to 20, and the house passed the Pass bill, 51 to 44.

WAR PROFITEERS MUST GIVE BACK ILL-GOTTEN GOLD

Washington, D. C., June 14.—[Special.]—Plans for a comprehensive investigation of large war contracts were announced today by Attorney General Daugherty, with the approval of President Harding.

The purpose is to disclose to the public whether numerous charges of irregularity relative to war contracts are justified or not.

In case the evidence warrants it, proceedings will be begun to recover money improperly obtained by contractors.

Mr. Daugherty is organizing a special bureau to handle the investigation. He said that he is seeking a prominent attorney to head the bureau and made it plain the inquiry will not be a muck-raking expedition.

He expressed confidence that the great majority of firms which did business with the government during the war were entirely fair in their dealings and are entitled to commendation.

No announcements relative to information obtained will be made public during the course of the inquiry, Mr. Daugherty said. A report will be issued when the work is completed. He indicated that the investigation would continue for many months and involve the expenditure of considerable money. Experts will be employed to assist the inquiry.

The above picture shows "Big Tim" about to board the train, which carried him to the Will county jail at Joliet. On the car steps is Deputy United States Marshal Thomas Henneberry, one of his guards. John J. Doyle Jr., another deputy United States marshal, is on the other side of the prisoner.

COL. SIMMONS TO ORGANIZE ARMY RESERVE HERE

Col. B. T. Simmons, who has been stationed in Washington, has been ordered to Fort Sheridan to aid in the work of forming the organized reserve in the 6th army corps. Secretary of War Weeks has appealed to the governors of all the states and the chambers of commerce to aid in the army reserve organization work.

There are some 66,000 officers at present on the rolls of the reserve corps and the work now being undertaken is that of enlisting the private and the non-commissioned officers. The reserve corps officers are enthusiastically taking hold and it is predicted that the old national army divisions, which made history overseas, will soon be reconstituted.

Under the plans outlined by Secretary Weeks it will be possible for these old divisions to retain their designations and insignia.

SLEUTH HONORED BY ROOSEVELT SEIZED IN CLEVELAND CASE

Edward W. Altz, head of a private detective agency at 165 West Washington street, was arrested yesterday by the Chicago police on complaint of Cleveland authorities, who wish him to answer an indictment on charges of conspiracy.

Altz was given a gold medal by President Roosevelt for suppressing vice and driving crooks from the Panama Canal Zone.

According to Edward W. Altz, Cleveland advised the conspiracy involved an alleged telephone wire tapping plot, directed chiefly against W. E. Telling, head of the Telling-Belle Vernon company, and had for its object the forcing of Telling to withdraw financial support from the H. H. Packer company, an outdoor advertising firm. The whole affair, the Cleveland police say, grows out of a business rivalry.

A man trailing Telling confessed, the Cleveland police say, that he was in the employ of Altz. Police later discovered telephone wires leading into the Packer offices were tapped. Under an Ohio statute making it a criminal offense to interfere with telephone lines, Altz and his operatives were indicted.

SENATE REJECTS WOMEN'S 8 HOUR WORK DAY BILL

Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Largely because of uncontradicted statements that the women workers of Illinois have not asked its passage the Sneed bill, limiting the working day of women to eight hours, was decisively beaten in the senate today.

The vote was 21 to 10, a number of senators passing.

Senator Sneed did not press the matter with any fire. His argument was that the proposed protection was one the legislature owed the women. Senator Turnbaugh started the opposition. He condemned the language of the bill, which would have prohibited employers from "permitting" their women workers to work more than eight hours a day.

HOSTILE CHICAGO CAMPS LINE UP ON TAX COMMISSION

Decisive Battle Is Looked For Today.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Lines are tightly drawn tonight between the Chicago political camps over the enactment of the state administration's proposed state tax commission bill.

Mayor Thompson, surrounded by his political cabinet, directs maneuvers demanding the bill, which centralizes in Governor Small's commission complete authority over all local taxing bodies, while George E. Brennan, Robert M. Swartz, F. A. Nash, and D. J. Egan, who arrived this afternoon, will line up solidly, if possible, the Cook county Democrats against the bill.

The Democratic leaders will sit in conference before the decisive hour arrives with the organization Democrats and urge defeat of the measure.

Trouble in Mayor's Camp.

Mayor Thompson finds trouble with Charles V. Barrett, chairman of his own county committee and member of the board of review. Mr. Barrett has a strong minority of the city hall group of twenty-seven representatives with him and he may be able to break the mayor's alignment.

The anti-administration Republicans, holding the balance of power, in company with many downstate members who oppose transfer of all power from local assessors to a centralized state body, may wreck the administration's pet proposition. The bill is scheduled to reach a showdown in the house late tomorrow.

Tax Bills to Win in Senate.

The senate committee on revenue today sent out with favorable report all of the house bills that fix the tax rates, precisely in the shape in which they were passed by the house. The tacit agreement was reached to make amendments that might be agreed to in conference on second reading, but the tax rates, it is now believed, will be those fixed by the house last night.

The downstate cities were the chief objectors today in committee and it was only their voluble protest that prevented a favorable report on the bill without strings attached.

The senate passed the Barr bill that doubles the rates of inheritance taxes. This was one of the bills recommended by Gov. Small. The vote was 49 to 6.

The senate, by a vote of 25 to 21, killed the bill that would have paid two years' salaries to the members of the defunct board of equalization.

JUDGE M'SURELY MADE AN LL. D. BY ALMA MATER

The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon William H. McSurely, justice of the appellate court, yesterday by the University of Wooster, in Wooster, Ohio.

Judge McSurely left Chicago Monday to attend the commencement exercises at Wooster and will remain in the Ohio city as a guest of the faculty for the remainder of the week.

Judge McSurely was born in Oxford, O., Jan. 27, 1865, and was graduated from Wooster in 1888. He came to Chicago and entered the practice of law the next year.

Mrs. Heil Held to Grand Jury on Six Charges

Mrs. Etta Heil of 6169 Winthrop avenue, wife of a millionaire broker and so-called "burglar maid," was held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 on six charges of larceny yesterday by Judge William L. Morgan.

Six complainants identified her as a maid they had employed who later disappeared at the same time as their homes were robbed.

SENATE PASSES SMALL'S CIVIL SERVICE BILL

Merit System Raid Wins, 29 to 15.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Small's raid on state civil service was approved by the senate today. By a vote of 29 to 15 it passed the Wheeler bill exempting from the operations of the merit law the department of public works and buildings, the department of agriculture and several large classes of state workers.

Protests of women's clubs, civic organizations and similar bodies were ignored and the bill passed exactly one week after its introduction.

Those who helped the raid along by speaking for it included Senators Otis F. Glenn, Richard J. Barr, Andrew S. Cuthbertson, and Harold C. Kessinger. The roll call follows:

YEAS.

Ballou,	Glenn,	Schulze,
Barrett,	Gray,	N. F. Smith,
Barr,	Hamilton,	O. W. Smith,
Carson,	Ransom,	Wood,
Cuthbertson,	Jewell,	Telford,
Dalley,	Kessinger,	Turnbaugh,
Dunlap,	Lester,	Van Lente,
Duval,	Mark,	Wheeler,
Elliottson,	Meents,	Wood,
Forrester,	Spence,	Wright,

NAYS.

Austin,	Corwell,	Mills,
Barber,	Easton,	Perrier,
Beck,	Hicks,	Sadler,
Clark,	McMurray,	Switt,

Senator Sadler charged that the Wheeler bill would destroy the civil service protection of nearly 3,000 employees and cited the fact that the merit act was adopted on referendum by a vote of 411,000 to 130,000.

"The governor," he continued, "is making one of the biggest mistakes of his life."

"If this bill goes through," Senator Austin said, "it will destroy practically all the civil service we have. The gentlemen who vote for this bill will put a blot on their records that won't soon be effaced."

"I don't believe the governor is responsible for this bill," declared Senator Barbour. "I believe it was conceived by some man of mystery somewhere up around Cook county, a man wearing goggles and wearing a hat that he would look well in selling patent medicine on a street corner."

HOUSE PASSES OMNIBUS BILL; VOTE IS 91 TO 2

Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—The omnibus bill was passed by the house tonight by a vote of 91 to 2. The Democrats refrained from voting. The bill carries the amendment adopted last night that fixes the common school fund at $12,000,000 instead of $8,000,000, as wanted by Gov. Small.

The bill will be on second reading in the senate Thursday and will be sent to conference probably Thursday night. The house action today was taken without a flurry and without a debate.

LANDIS SPEEDS WAGE HEARING AS BUILDING STARTS

Promises 'Housecleaning'
After Wage Settlement.

That speed will be the keynote in the settlement of the building trades wage reduction dispute was evidenced yesterday when Judge Landis required that one day in which to hear the arguments of the union heads and contractors. The arbitration hearing, which is being held in Judge Landis' courtroom in the federal building, adjourned shortly before 6 o'clock, the judge announcing that he would call in any of those who had presented arguments provided he found necessary information lacking on any point.

While Judge Landis set no time at which his decision will be handed down, he indicated that it would come within a few days, as he wanted to get the wage question out of the way so he could go into the matter of working rules.

"Later I will take up the working conditions," he said, "and you have assurance that if I find it necessary there will be a thorough housecleaning in the building industry."

$30,000,000 of Work Starts.
While the hearing was in progress between 20,000 and 25,000 workmen who had been idle since the lockout started on May 1 flocked back to work and by noon approximately $30,000,000 worth of construction work was under way. All trades with the exception of some of the carpenters returned to work. They have refused to abide by an arbitration proceedings at least as far as they pertain to working rules.

Speakers at the Hearing.
The principal speakers for labor were Tom Kearney, president of the Building Trades council; John Gleason of the bricklayers' union; and Attorney J. M. McDonald, representing the Building Trades council. The spokesmen for the employers were Peter Haupt, president of the Building Construction Employers' association; E. M. Craig, secretary of that organization; Andrew Langquist, president of the Associated Builders, and William P. Schlake and William McKinley, business manager and secretary, respectively, of that association.

Still a third side of the question was presented by the architects, who announced they were speaking for the public.

Wants Plotting Stopped.
"Your honor, you have the opportunity to do the greatest amount of public good that was ever given to one man," said F. E. Davidson, president of the Illinois Society of Architects, shortly before the session closed. "As a citizen I request your honor to look into the public interest and these issues are the efficiency of the working man and the settlement of jurisdictional disputes."

"Although we know a conspiracy exists between the contractors and the unions, it would be mighty hard to prove. Every indication points to the fact that such a conspiracy exists and it is a condition that should be eliminated."

Judge Landis replied that he could take up the wage question only at this time. He informed Mr. Davidson, however, he would give his argument consideration at a later meeting.

The contractors contended that the cost of construction was about equally divided between the price of materials and the pay rolls. In refutation of this argument Attorney McDonald quoted from an article prepared by Mr. Davidson last February in which he stated that if skilled labor were cut

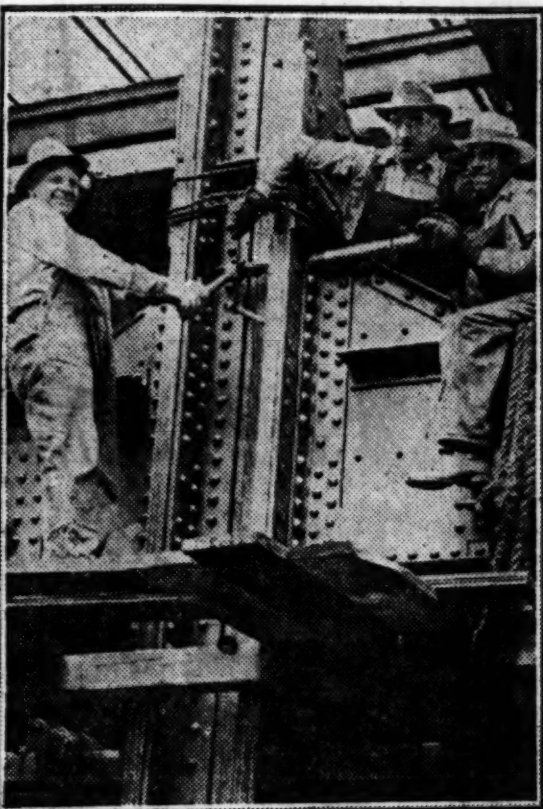

SPEEDING UP THE BUILDING REVIVAL

Judge Landis, acting as arbiter in the dispute between building workers and their employers, yesterday showed he intended to permit no delays in the final settlement. The above picture is the scene in his courtroom, where the arbitration committee met. In the foreground are (1) Andrew Langquist, a prominent contractor; (2) W. J. McDonald, attorney for the contractors, who is speaking; and (3) Thomas Kearney, president of the Building Trades council.

While the hearing was in progress from 20,000 to 25,000 men resumed work. The picture shows the resumption of work on one of the new steel skyscrapers that is being constructed.

Another view of the work on one of the new buildings, showing the structural steel workers busy in mid-air after their long vacation forced by the lockout.

from $1.25 to $1 an hour and common labor reduced 20 per cent the cost of building would be lowered only 2.93 per cent. He was also quoted as saying freight rates and war taxes had added 25 per cent to the cost of materials.

Mr. Davidson testified the figures in the article were erroneous, that the cost of building would be reduced 20 per cent by a cut in wages. It was then he made his plea for an investigation of the alleged contractors' and unions' conspiracy.

Attorney McDonald charged an agreement had been entered into between the banks and the contractors whereby the former would make no building loans until wages were cut. Gleason contended there was a conspiracy between the contractors and the material men whereby the latter would not deliver brick and other building products.

"That is absurd," declared Mr. Craig. "It is the public who are on strike. Anyone can go out today and purchase all the materials he wants and he can get all the labor he wants at wages under those in the existing scale. It is nonsense to say this situation was caused with the intention of making Chicago an 'open shop' town."

THE efficiency of a motor varies with the quality of fuel used. Everyone knows that. Food is the source of energy for the body. Everyone knows that. Efficiency of body and mind varies with the quality of food consumed. Everyone knows THAT. And yet there are intelligent persons whose whole outlook upon life is warped by persistent carelessness in accepting unsuitable food. Throughout the country more good food is spoiled in preparation than reaches the consumer in prime condition. At Henrici's every practicable safeguard known is employed to insure great excellence in food at all times.

3 INDICTED FOR SLAYING YELLOW CAB CHAUFFEUR

The grand jury yesterday returned indictments against Philip Fox, Morris Steuben, and John Dobrevka in connection with the killing last week of F. A. Skirven, yellow cab chauffeur. Fox and Morris were charged with murder and Dobrevka with assault with intent to kill.

At a session of the city council local transportation committee, investigating the taxi cab war, Louis Romano, at one time an employee of the Yellow Cab company, charged that he was sent out in a cab painted to represent a Checker cab to "make trouble" for the "Checker cab people." He said he had been promised a good job if he would help put the Checker company out of business.

Ald. Walkowiak demanded that Romano be placed under arrest by Deputy Superintendent of Police Alcock, who was at the meeting, saying that Romano had "confessed to a conspiracy."

Romano should not be arrested unless men who hired him are locked up also," protested Ald. Mulcahy.

At the close of its session the committee named Aldermen Bowler, L. B. Anderson and T. A. Hogan to request Chief of Police Fitzsimmons to make no further arrests of Checker cab chauffeurs for failure to have cab stand permits until after the next session of the committee to be held tomorrow.

"FIFI" BLAMES STILLMAN ACTS ON WALL STREET

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 14.—(Special.)—"I look on him as I would on a sick man in a hospital." "He is abnormal." "I feel that he is worse than a Bolshevik in what he is doing." The three sentences are from a discussion of James A. Stillman by Mrs. James A. Stillman in the course of a talk today with newspaper men at the home of John E. Mack, where the former "Fifi" Potter is awaiting tomorrow's resumption of the divorce hearings.

With a curiously impersonal tone, Mrs. Stillman analyzed the character and intent of the former president of the National City bank.

"He has many admirable qualities, but he is abnormal like so many Wall Street men," she said, "for, remember, Mr. Stillman is not the only one of his kind—not by a long shot. The fault seems to lie with the lives they lead down there. The constant struggle for power, power, more power, and still more power—that is the life of some of the men in the street. The eternal mania for making money. It is this power craze in such men that turns them away from their equals in their moments of rest from business, in their moments of relaxation."

HELD ON CHILD'S CHARGE.
James (Doodle), 104 Austin avenue, was held to the grand jury in $20,000 bonds yesterday on a charge preferred by a girl 5 years old. The case was heard by Judge Bernard Barnes.

HARDING WARNS U.S. BUREAUCRATS TO END INTRIGUE

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., June 14.—(Special.)—President Harding and the cabinet today declared war on the influence of Washington bureaucracy against government reorganization.

After discovery that chiefs of government bureaus had been conducting propaganda against the administration's plan to reorganize the executive departments the President was aroused to action.

Discussing the situation with the cabinet for more than an hour, the President determined upon a drastic course, each member of the cabinet being directed to serve notice upon all bureau chiefs and individual employees that propaganda against the executive effort to reform the government machinery would meet with instant dismissal from the service.

The President did not disclose any specific details of organized bureaucratic interference, but several instances of such action were called to his attention.

Steps Underhanded Work.

He made it clear that the order to bureau chiefs did not mean that they would not be given an opportunity to express their views on reorganization to the commission which has undertaken this work.

What the administration will not countenance will be underhanded and organized efforts within departments to impede the work of the reorganization commission. (The President does not intend to have the committee's task obstructed by selfish efforts of government employees to tighten their personal holds on the federal treasury.)

The administration is pleased with the manner in which the reorganization committee, headed by Walter Brown of Ohio, has taken hold of the work, but does not expect that it will be ready to report recommendations for legislation until the regular session of congress beginning next December.

Propaganda Is Uncovered.

The cause of the President's order was the outcome of a complaint made to him a few days ago by the chairman of the joint commission, that active propaganda to counteract the plans of the commission was in progress and was likely to influence congressional action.

One of the chief sources of complaint had to do with the suggested transfer of the naval hydrographic office, now under the navy department, to the department of commerce. It was asserted that some person or persons had been diligent in getting unions of longshoremen and other organizations connected with shipping to adopt resolutions protesting against the proposed transfer.

Fire had also been concentrated by persons opposed to the proposed creation of a department of public welfare, which would include the present bureau of education, now a subordinate branch of the interior department.

In this connection it was indicated that the President's recent action on obtaining the resignation of Philander P. Claxton, commissioner of education, was due to his appearance before a committee of congress to oppose the transfer of his bureau.

Still another complaint was that bulletins sent out by the agricultural department to farmers contained suggestions concerning the proposed reorganization, indicating that it would not be feasible to transfer certain bureaus or divisions of the department to other departments of the government.

Doris Keane, Holmes, to Act at Children's Benefit

Miss Doris Keane of "Romance" at the Garrick and Taylor Holmes of "Smooth as Silk" at the Cort yesterday were added to the long list of stars who will appear at the benefit Friday afternoon at the Garrick theater for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society.

Mr. Holmes entertained some of the wards of the society yesterday. One little girl burst into tears because the others had rings and she hadn't.

Mr. Holmes sent out at once and in a few minutes every little girl had a ring.

MRS. ORTHWEIN NO. 1 TO FACE NO. 2 IN DEATH TRIAL

Mrs. Nova Orthwein, first wife of Ralph Orthwein, St. Louis-Kansas City broker from whom Mrs. Cora Isabelle Orthwein was divorced some years ago, will be the first witness for the state this morning in the trial of Mrs. Orthwein No. 2 for the murder of Herbert P. Ziegler.

The second witness, it was announced yesterday, will be Mrs. Charlotte Lewinsky, the "kissing blonde" with whom Ziegler danced but a few hours before his death—the dance and the kisses included in it being the primary cause of the killing, the state contends.

Mrs. Orthwein No. 1 is expected to testify regarding Mrs. Cora Orthwein's relations with Ralph Orthwein before the first Mrs. Orthwein's divorce. Her testimony is expected to materially strengthen the state's case.

Assistant States Attorney Lloyd D. Heath, who is in charge of the prosecution, spent yesterday in Springfield on the Wanderer and Geary reprieve pleas.

SENATE HOUSE GERMA

Harding Rem
as Solo

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., June 14.—The senate today accepted the house peace resolution, which was given to the senate upon the passage of the peace resolution by the house. The senate's action was a significant step in the process of ending the war.

All signs point to a quick end to the war. The administration's plan for a peace resolution is well received by both houses of congress. The senate's action today was a clear indication of its support for the administration's policy.

Senator Knox, author of the peace resolution, expressed his satisfaction with the senate's action. He stated that the senate's support for the administration's plan was a testament to the American people's desire for peace.

The senate's action today was a significant step in the process of ending the war. It showed that the senate was in agreement with the administration's policy and was ready to support the peace resolution.

SENATE REJECTS HOUSE PLAN FOR GERMAN PEACE

Harding Remains Neutral as Solons Clash.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., June 14.—(Special.)—The senate today flatly refused to accept the house substitute for the Knox peace resolution and sent both measures to conference. Instructions were given to the senate managers to insist upon the senate draft of the peace resolution and to oppose substitution of the so-called Porter measure to the last ditch.

All signs point to a prolonged deadlock. The administration, it is clearly indicated, will refuse to intervene in the controversy. President Harding, it is understood, wants the two houses to work out a solution to their difficulties without executive interference. The administration, according to reports at the capitol, is in no great hurry for final adoption of the resolution, and, in fact, would not be greatly disappointed if it were held up in conference until the European situation clears up more satisfactorily.

Clash of Leaders Seen.

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, author of the senate resolution, and his fellow townsman, Representative Porter, author of the house resolution, will clash head-on when the conference begins. The senate today appointed Senator Lodge, Senator Knox, Republican, and Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, as its conferees. The house will appoint Representatives Porter, Rogers, Massachusetts, Republicans, and Flood, Virginia, Democrat, as its managers.

Fear Legal Tangles.

The senate conferees are expected to take the position that the constitutionality of the Porter resolution may be gravely questioned and that it may throw the way open for ceaseless litigation. Senators point out that the right of congress to repeal one of its own acts, as the Knox resolution provides, is unquestioned, but that the power of congress to assume the functions of a treaty making body and declare the war at an end may be open to attack in the courts.

The main point of difference between the two resolutions lies in the opening paragraph. The senate resolution provides that the joint resolution declaring war against Germany and Austria "is hereby repealed and said state of war is hereby declared at an end."

The house resolution merely declares that the state of war "is hereby declared at an end."

YOUNG AMERICA HONORS THE FLAG

Children in all of the city schools observed Flag day yesterday with appropriate exercises. Speakers told what the national emblem meant, the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung, and flag drills were held. The picture shows the children of the Franklin school in their playground, bearing the colors whose significance had been explained to them earlier in the day. The principal services were held in Lincoln park, where Dr. B. J. Cigrand, president of the National Flag Day association, was the speaker.

50,000 RUSSIANS ARE MARCHING TO REINFORCE TURKS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) PARIS, June 14.—Greek headquarters here assert that 50,000 bolshevik troops, chiefly cavalry, are en route across the Caucasus to reinforce the Kemalists to meet the Greek offensive. The reason Greek naval forces have begun to blockade the Turkish Black sea ports is to prevent the bolsheviks from transporting several Red divisions concentrated at Sevastopol across to Inodol or Barton, the Greeks here state.

The allies fear the Russians may be used in a thrust against Constantinople while Kemal masses the Turks against Smyrna. It is pointed out that the Reds retain some vessels of the old Russian navy at Odessa and Sevastopol which might be used to transport troops for landing on the Ismid peninsula.

The available French and British aviation units at Constantinople, it is believed, would be adequate to prevent such disembarkation, and it is believed certain of the allies would abandon neutrality the moment Constantinople was really threatened.

MARTINIQUE

New York. Formerly The Annex

WHEN Hotel McAlpin interests acquired and spent a large amount of money in beautifying and modernizing the famous Martinique Hotel, a short time ago, the name was changed to The Annex. This implied that by standards and by proximity it was an annex to Hotel McAlpin.

The name has caused confusion. Therefore, for the benefit of the guests and the management, it is announced that the name "Martinique" will be restored. It is now a new Martinique—new in decoration, furnishing, policy and charges.

The hotel is first class, the management is first class, the location most central and the tariff genuinely moderate. Pleasant rooms from $3.00 up. Popular club breakfasts from 45c to $1.00. Substantial luncheons and dinners at $1.25 and $1.75 and a well prepared and quickly served selection of satisfying dishes is a carte at new prices.

Try the Martinique. We know you will like it. Affiliated with Hotel McAlpin.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

It is out of such a situation as has developed this session at Springfield that national reputations are made. Some man of character and imagination, with gifts of leadership hitherto not fully called forth, might seize this opportunity, unite the anti-Tammany forces, appeal triumphantly to the conscience of the state, and win one of those striking victories for good government which put men in the forefront of political affairs, as it were, overnight.

It was his fight against the Tweed ring that gave Thide leadership of his party and brought him to the threshold of the White House. Roosevelt, Hughes, Jerome, Folk, Hiram Johnson were all leaders who sprang into the saddle at one leap, who became national names and national figures because of their courage and grasp in a crisis.

The situation at Springfield cries out for such a man. Opportunity is written across its front in letters of gold. The Illinois Tammany, an unnatural alliance of the corrupt forces of city and country politics against the best interest of both Chicago and downstate, would not withstand one thundering blow from a masterful fist. Already it is cracking visibly under the weight of its own evil policies. The people are waking to its waste and its insolent ambition. Good men, in the legislature and out, honorable captains in politics, are on the move against the enemy. All that is needed is the man of the hour.

He may be under the capital dome now, in the senate or in the house. He may be a Republican in revolt against the evils he sees being organized to exploit the state. He may be a Democrat. He may be a veteran in the political field or a young man at the beginning of his career.

It matters nothing what he is, so he has the courage, the force, the brains and will to seize the strong forces of conscience and citizenship in the legislature and turn them as a well-forged weapon against the exploiters of the state.

The doom of Illinois' Tammany is certain. The alliance which put Len Small in power at Springfield is, as we have said, unnatural. Downstate men who accept the dictates of the governor are not the agents of this agent of the Chicago political powers of rule and ruin. Downstate will not endure the domination of an organized corruption emanating from the worst political conditions of a great city, and men who line up to do the bidding of Tammany are betraying downstate as well as the great city which has just repudiated the very power whose agent they obey.

The men in the legislature who revolt against this unnatural alliance will find their people back of them, whether they are the law-abiding people of Chicago or of downstate. The man who rises to leadership of such a revolt wipes out downstate and city lines and will have behind him the united forces of clean government from Cairo to the Wisconsin line.

The opportunity for service, for high achievement, for nation-wide reputation waits for the man of the hour.

MORE TRICKS TO EVADE SPEEDY JUSTICE.

Eleventh hour devices to save men from the gallows ought to be abolished in law. We are reading these days of tactics for postponement of the execution of two cold blooded murderers, and it is not certain at this writing that the tactics will not succeed. The effect upon public opinion is to increase the sense of tardiness and uncertainty in the enforcement of legal justice, a most demoralizing effect, which robs the law of its just terrors and its proper influence for checking criminal impulse.

The delay in these instances is the result of the survival of a law enacted in 1845, which, it is held, gives criminals a right to stay and trial for insanity developing after conviction. Other murderers now awaiting execution will probably now make use of the lucky find, and we shall have another humiliating exhibition of defeated justice.

It is not time to give our criminal statutes a thorough overhauling and to establish a strict procedure, which will insure speedy trial and punishment? Delay and evasion of justice in serious cases are a scandal in our country, and notably in Illinois, and there ought to be a comprehensive reform. Other nations, which regard the rights of the individual as jealously, or more jealously, than we do, do not suffer from this evil, but provide successfully for speedy and certain application of criminal law. It is time we were relieved of the grave and far reaching evils of tardy and uncertain criminal justice.

A WISE PLAN FOR THE FARMERS.

Representatives of farm bureaus in eight middle western states are considering a plan to buy 60,000 car loads of coal through a pooling plan, which would save $5,000,000 to corn belt farmers. That would be an achievement in cooperation of high cash value and important influence.

There is nothing visionary about it. The farmers would simply place their orders through their county organizations, have the coal shipped to their local station direct from the mines, and there load it into their own wagons and carry it home at a saving of $2 a ton. Buying, if one has the money, is a much simpler proposition than selling. It requires no elaborate organization of agents and salesmen and no great system of warehouses and places of business.

Such a plan as the one suggested will save the middleman's profits for the farmer without substituting some other expense. It will strengthen the farmers' community of interests and give them experience in cooperative dealing. If such an experiment in cooperation as this can be made successfully, the farmers will be in better position to try out their proposed cooperative marketing plans.

A TASK FOR MID-WEST SENATORS.

The Borah bill, providing for free passage of American coastwise vessels through the Panama canal, has been reported favorably by the senate committee on interoceanic canals. It is expected that an attempt will be made on the floor to amend the bill to exempt all American vessels, whether in coastwise or foreign trade.

Here is a job for the recently organized agrarian bloc in the senate. It is to the interest of every farmer and virtually every business man in the middle west that this bill should be defeated. If middle western senators will unite in the interests of their constituents instead of allowing themselves to be influenced improperly by the interests of the two coasts it may be defeated.

The measure amounts to taxing the middle west to subsidize agricultural, commercial, and shipping interests on the coasts. If American ships do not pay tolls to keep up the canal the cost must be paid from taxation. Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Omaha, Denver, and a score of other cities and their surrounding territory will be called upon to subsidize water carriers which will injure business in the interior to the advantage of New York, Boston, Mobile, Galveston, New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle and their adjacent regions. Such an arrangement is not just to the interior. Neither is it good business for the nation. The middle western senators should be solidly against it.

If the coast states would support instead of blocking the St. Lawrence seaway there might be a different story. Then seagoing vessels could reach the heart of the continent and the interior would get some returns on the taxes paid for maintenance of the canal. It helped to build that canal and is still paying taxes on the job. Why should it be further penalized?

Incidentally the Hay-Pauncefote treaty guaranteeing equal privileges to the ships of all nations still stands. Shall we, in addition to imposing an injustice upon half the territory of the country, subject ourselves to a charge of unfairly constructing an international understanding?

SUPPLEMENTARY TO THE BUILDING WAGE SETTLEMENT.

While Judge Landis as arbitrator is bringing about a settlement of the building trades wage problem, ending the difficulties which have tied up construction in Chicago for six weeks, it is equally necessary that difficulties in the way of obtaining building materials be settled. If wages of the workers are reduced, as seems possible, the consequent slack in building costs must not be taken up immediately by the material supply dealers.

The judge's authority as arbitrator of the wage dispute does not extend to questions of price fixing or conspiracy on the part of the material men, but the judge has been known to step out of the narrow restrictions of roles assigned him in the past and act with an eye to public welfare. Perhaps he will uncover enough evidence in the present case to justify some such action. If he can do so and will speak a few well chosen words into the ears of material dealers and contractors, in addition to satisfying the workers on the wage question, Chicago may enjoy the building boom which it needs so badly.

It is the high cost of building, not exclusively the high cost of labor, which has held back construction ever since the armistice. High money rates, high material costs, and conspiracy and coercion, both among unscrupulous material dealers and unscrupulous labor agents, have played their part in blocking building. The Daily investigation has brought out all these factors.

Even if wages are reduced and the men are willing to give a full day's work for the new day's pay construction will not have the stimulus it requires unless the total cost of building is greatly reduced. This cannot be done if material dealers combine to seize for themselves the money saved on labor, or even if they maintain prices in the manner of the last three years.

If it is outside the powers of Judge Landis to bring this fact home to the lumber, brick, cement, sand, gravel, stone, and door dealers some other medium for impressing it upon them must be found. No group of men can be allowed to hold back the growth and prosperity of Chicago indefinitely for selfish purposes.

Editorial of the Day

NON-PARTISAN JUDICIARY.

(From the Belleville News-Democrat.)

A non-partisan judiciary was always the American ideal.

Every statesman worthy of the name in this country has contended for that principle.

A partisan judiciary is an anathema. It is an abomination and a curse.

It is not only contrary to the highest professions of free institutions, but subversive of the ends of justice.

With this knowledge and in this conviction, the legislature of our state separated the judicial election from the regular activities and characterized by party strife. Conceding that our judicial circuit is now Republican in complexion, that is to say, that there are more Republican voters than Democratic voters residing within its boundaries, there still is a powerful minority of Democrats in the circuit, and even if we must have a majority of Republican circuit judges, why not at least let one Democrat slip in and give him a chance to represent this very substantial minority, if the partisan political factor is to enter into the calculation at all?

THE GREAT STUPIDITY.

[By William Archer; Atlantic Monthly.]

It is the thoughtless mischief-makers—the people who are moved by mere ignorant and silly prejudice—who are guilty of the Great Stupidity. . . . The essence of the situation can be stated in very few words. If Britain and America stand back to back, they are so utterly unassailable that no external enemy need cause them any moment's uneasiness.

If, on the other hand, they insist on standing face to face, exchanging glances of suspicion and covert defiance, and even (oh, folly of folly!) the crime of crime!) aiming against each other, they leave their backs exposed to assaults from many quarters, while they wantonly spend their labor and their substance on that which profits not, or profiteth only the profiteer. . . . There is more active ill-will in America than in England. The average American citizen has been very imperfectly awakened to his citizenship of the world, and, in the lassitude following upon the war-fervor, is even inclined to abjure and deny it. Disregard of the plain evidence of his senses, he yields, consciously and deliberately, to the illusion of the Atlantic, and vehemently asserts that that ocean still exists, as it did in the days of Washington, Monroe, and Channing. He sees (what is quite true) that England needs America more obviously and immediately than America needs
England; and he infers (what is quite false) that to admit the solidarity of their interests would be to acquiesce in a bargain.

earls and the lords and their ladies on the right road, whereupon having a healthy baby and talking about it became good form. Not even having a Painless pup and drinking pink tea was half so smart.

But what does the record show as to the common people whom Lincoln said God loved since he made so many of them? The number of babies dying in 1910 was 1,815; in 1911, 1,801; 1912, 1,736.
All of the years in there had totals over 6,000. The population in 1913 was considerably less than one-half the present figure. In other words, one-half the babies many babies, speaking roughly, there were 50 per cent more deaths.

The mothers of today are having about one-third the death rate among their babies. That they, the mothers, suffered from what they were babies. The mothers of today know far more about mothers than their mothers knew, and they,
I am sure, will be happy when they think their children will know far more about it than they do.

The very great improvement has been made in July and August sickness. In 1920 the number of babies dying in July and August was 732. In 1910 the number was 1,365; in 1900, 1,564. But to approach just how far we have come let us see

FRANCE STRIKING DIRECT BARGAIN WITH GERMANY

Big Business Sits in War
Bill Game.

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, June 14.—Details of the conference at Wiesbaden between M. Loucheur, French minister of the liberated regions, and Herr Rathenau, German minister of reconstruction, were obtained this afternoon following the return of the French members of the party to Paris. These indicate the meeting of the two ministers may produce more important developments than any supreme council meeting so far held.

Direct and independent dealings by the French with Germany, without the intrusion of Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, or Japan, were shown in the conversations.

The meeting marks a big victory for a powerful French group, including wealthy manufacturers, who believe since France is the principal creditor of Germany, Quai d'Orsay should be permitted a free hand to drive the hardest and best bargains with Wilhelmstrasse.

Nature of Conferences.

Among the subjects discussed at Wiesbaden were the following:

FIRSTLY, Minister Rathenau's demand that Germany be permitted to colonize and to exploit Russia as the sole means of being able to earn enough money ever to pay the huge reparations.

SECONDLY, Substitution of a small tax—1 or 2 per cent—on all German business, domestic as well as foreign, for the 26 per cent levy on exports which the reparations commission decided to make. Minister Rathenau insisted all Germany must participate in paying the reparations, not only the exporters.

M. Loucheur, it is said, agreed there was no reason why the levy should not be made on all German business, instead of only on foreign trade, if the amount recoverable is kept the same under the new arrangement.

THIRDLY, Restoration to Germany of the Kamerun colony in Africa under a league of nations mandate which Herr Rathenau pressed as the last of his demands. M. Loucheur rejected the demand unequivocally.

Silesia Concerned?

Herr Rathenau also attempted to discuss the necessity of Germany retaining Upper Silesia, but M. Loucheur did not comment on these remarks, although rumors are current that a trade is under consideration whereby Germany retains nearly all the principal mining deposits and manufacturing centers, Poland being appeased by favorable reparations in the Kovno and Vilna controversy with a certain percentage of the raw materials and finished products from Upper Silesia guaranteed at a fixed price.

Besides the above subjects M. Loucheur and Herr Rathenau discussed Franco-German industrial cooperation, which involves big business and the wealthy magnates of both nations. M. Loucheur announced a willingness to examine the German's first two suggestions without, however, prejudicing the French government's decision.

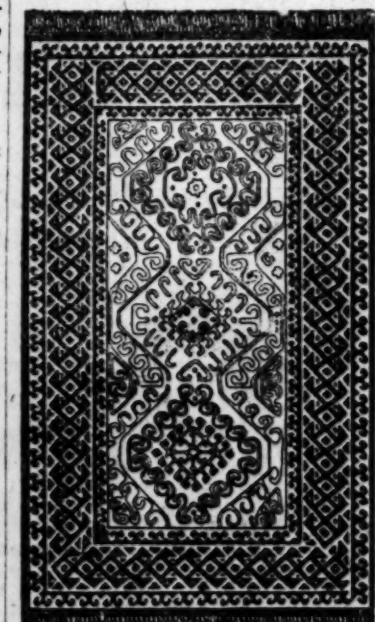

The German financial expert Bergmann is expected to be sent back to Paris to a conference to continue the Wiesbaden discussions with M. Seydoux, French fiscal wizard, representing M. Loucheur.

ANGLO-JAP PACT MUST SUIT U. S. OR CEASE TO BE

No Renewal Otherwise, Britain Says.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune.

LONDON, June 14.—America will be consulted before the Anglo-Japanese treaty is renewed and there will be no renewal unless the pact is agreeable to the United States.

This statement was made today by the imperial conference which opens in the cabinet room at 10 Downing street next Monday.

Nothing has been decided as to the form of consultation with the American authorities, but it is likely that Ambassador Harbord will be kept informed of every step in the negotiations. The necessity for American agreement to the treaty is recognized not only by Prime Minister Lloyd George but by all the colonial premiers.

Wants U. S. to Be Pleased.
Prime Minister Hughes of Australia, Massey of New Zealand, and Smuts of South Africa have all declared publicly that if the treaty is renewed it must be agreeable to the United States. Premier Meighan of Canada, who has not arrived, is said to be of the same mind as the others.

The opinion is gaining ground here that the eventual solution will be for a tripartite Pacific entente, composed of the United States, the British empire, and Japan, and it is hoped, if the Yaps and California land problems are settled, that America will come in to help keep peace for the world in the Pacific, perhaps allowing Japan to expand on the Asiatic continent.

To Act on Matter at Once.

The first day's meeting of the imperial conference will be devoted to the organization of the agenda, etc., and then the Anglo-Japanese treaty will be taken up immediately. Other questions to be brought up are coordination of the foreign policy of the empire, defense of the empire, and an imperial constitutional conference to be held next year.

CHINESE TRADERS OBJECT
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 14.—In the name of China's business men, the Chinese general chamber of commerce at Shanghai has sent cablegrams to all parts of the world protesting against a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Messages have been sent to the British cabinet and parliament, the governments of Canada, Australia, and India, the United States congress, to the governments of Italy and France, to the Manchester Guardian, the London Times, the Daily Herald, and the Chinese minister at London.

REIGN OF "DRYS"
ENDS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA TODAY
[Victoria, B. C., June 14.—(By Canadian Press.)—With the coming into force tomorrow of the British Columbia liquor act, the province emerges from a three and a half year "dry" period. The present act is the result of the referendum taken on Oct. 20 last throughout the province, when the people emphatically voted for the sale of liquor in sealed packages by the government. The majority in favor of repealing the prohibition act was about 40,000.

The prohibition act came into force on Oct. 1, 1917, during the war, when the people, by a small majority, voted to prohibit the sale of liquor by government dispensaries.

NEW COMMANDER PLEDGES LEGION WILL "CARRY ON"

Indianapolis, Ind., June 14.—John G. Emery, elected national commander of the American Legion here today, in his first statement as head of the organization issued here tonight advocated a continuance by the Legion of its program of instilling in the hearts of former service men and women a sense of "individual obligation to community, state, and nation." He said the Legion would continue its fight in behalf of disabled veterans until every man is generously provided for.

The new national commander paid a showing tribute to the late Col. Galbraith, his predecessor.

Thomas J. Bannigan of Hartford, Conn., was elected vice commander, succeeding Mr. Emery in that position. Among First of A. E. F.
Grand Rapids, Mich., June 14.—Maj. Emery saw much of the fighting that the American troops participated in during the world war. He entered the second officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan Aug. 27, 1917.

On Oct. 9, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne drive, Maj. Emery was wounded in the left arm and was in invalided home.

All Chicago Invited to Peacock's Display of WATCHES

The world over, from time out of mind, the young woman and the young man always look for some affectionate recognition on Graduation Day. It is an important milestone in their lives and should be signalized by some artistic and enduring gift.

Perhaps it needs only this suggestion to induce you to stop here and go over our remarkable display of American and Foreign wrist and pocket watches, comprising the widest variety of makes, styles and prices.

For many years we have been furnishing such Graduation Gifts for the sons and daughters of Chicago families—for 84 years to be exact—and we feel the keenest personal pride in the confidence which has been bestowed upon us in this as well as other items of the advanced jeweler's trade.

Many people have an idea that it is necessary to invest a great deal of money to get a good watch. This is not exactly true. While we do not carry anything but good watches, some of them run as low as $20. For further example, a 17-jewel adjusted Elgin movement in a 20-year-case costs as little as $35, yet it is as fine a movement as anyone could wish.

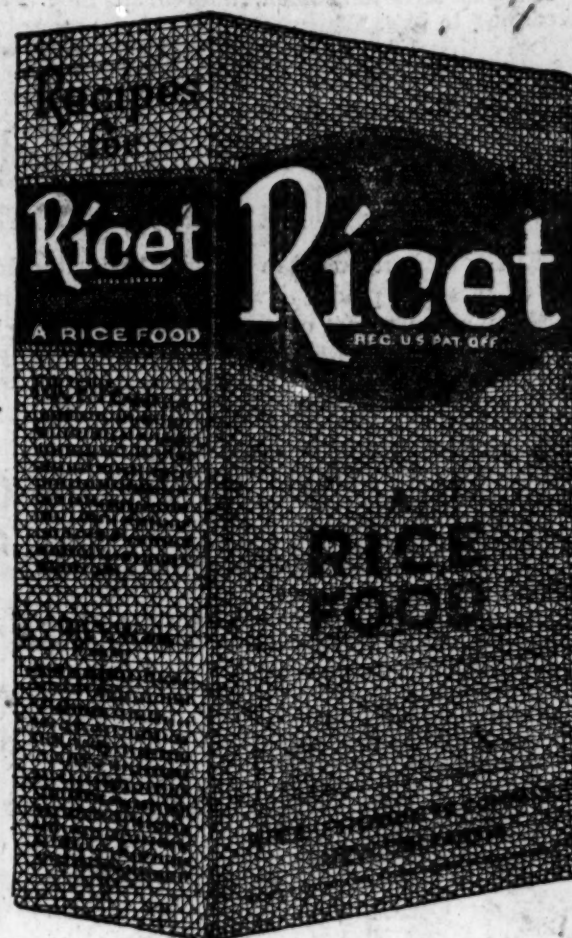

Of course you can go much higher in price for diamond-set, platinum and solid gold cases, but in any event if you buy it at Peacock's the distinction and prestige of the house is behind it. It is a good watch regardless of the price.

Happy Babies

Hungry babies love to eat, but sometimes they are cross after their meal.

Ricet is easily digested even by infants, invalids, or convalescents.

Ricet digests in one hour, while bread, potatoes, and crackers require three hours or more.

Everyone likes it, so the usual way is to cook enough Ricet in the morning for breakfast and lunch. Warmed over, it is just as good as when first cooked.

Ricet will cook thoroughly while you are making the coffee, so it takes no more time to have it for breakfast.

When you buy a package at your grocer's, ask him for the book of recipes.

NO MORE NAVY BEAN SPILLING, DENBY DECIDES

Issues an Order Limiting Utterances.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., June 14.—(Special.)—Secretary of the Navy Denby today issued a general order relating to public utterances and writings of navy employees and personnel.

While the navy department will maintain no censorship on discussions by navy men on professional subjects, there will be limitations in the regulations concerning utterances on broader questions such as foreign relations, war plans, and confidential matters.

In issuing the order today no reference was made by Secretary Denby to the controversy over Admiral W. S. Sims' recent speeches in London on the Irish question which he has been called home to explain, but it is evident that the author of the regulations had them in mind.

Details of the Order.
After setting forth the exemption the Denby order says:

"Nevertheless, unrestricted utterance or publication of fact and opinion may divulge information which it is not advisable to make public, and may constitute an offense against military discipline as 'conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.'"

"For information and guidance of the naval service this order enumerates some of the limitations which come under the naval regulations."

"(a) Articles bearing on the foreign policies of the government."
"(b) Articles offensive to foreign governments."

"(c) Open discussion of war plans, proposed or approved strategic and tactical plans, or of new developments in naval material not yet made public."

Other Navy Regulations.

"Many regulations of 1920 prescribe the method of caring for 'secret and confidential' material. They forbid praise or censure of other persons in the naval service; state that the motives of others must not be impugned; prescribe the methods of redress for wrongs, and covers appeals. Regulations also exist for guidance in correspondence."

"Any communication intended for the public should be composed only after mature reflection, in a spirit of good taste and good temper, and in a seemly and proper manner.

"A signed copy of any article by any person in the navy on professional subjects must be in the hands of the navy department at the time of publication of communication. The author will be responsible for any statements made."

Rear-Admiral Sims sails for the United States tomorrow from England, according to a cablegram received today by Secretary Denby.

SIMS AT ST. JAMES.

LONDON, June 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., was received by the Prince of Wales this afternoon at St. James' palace.

GOMPERS PUTS WAR BLAME ON GERMAN LABOR

Denver, Colo., June 14.—Organized labor of Germany could have prevented the world war, President Samuel Gompers declared in an address today before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"I hold that the organized labor movement of Germany failed at the critical hour," the veteran labor leader said in responding to addresses of the fraternal delegates from Great Britain and Canada.

"It is true," he continued, "that if the labor movement of that country had taken the situation in hand it might have meant the destruction of a few thousand; it might have caused the incarceration of many thousands; but if that had occurred it would have stopped the war."

Discusses Irish Question.

After reviewing the international problems confronting organized labor of the world and the British coal miners' strike, J. H. Thomas, British labor leader, discussed the Irish question, when questioned as to what the British labor movement is doing for Irish freedom.

"We have been living in artificial prosperity—a fool's paradise," said Mr. Thomas. "The workers of the world are suffering the inevitable price of living a riotous life during the last six years." Much of the "artificial prosperity," he said, was due to the mistakes of the governments "confusing paper money with wealth."

The talk of overproduction, he said, was absurd. The world was suffering from underproduction.

Resolutions "Cruel."

Warning the workers of America that they cannot solve the Irish question, Mr. Thomas said:

"I warn you against trying to create in their (Irish people) minds the feeling that you can solve their difficulties. They don't understand at all, and isn't it a cruel thing for people to merely assume by the passing of a resolution that you can solve this problem of hundreds of years?"

GEORGE E. LEACH ELECTED MAYOR OF MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., June 14.—Col. George E. Leach, unofficial Republican candidate, was elected mayor yesterday, according to virtually complete returns which give him a lead over Thomas Van Lear, candidate supported by labor and the Working People's Non-partisan Political league.

With five scattered precincts out of 273 missing, the vote was: Leach, 76,353; Van Lear, 62,408.

Four new Socialist and Labor candidates were added to the council, according to incomplete and unofficial figures tabulated tonight. This brings the Socialist and Labor membership in the council to eleven. There are twenty-six aldermen in the council.

Mary Roberts Rinehart's

Only Serial in any Magazine this Year

"The Breaking Point"

begins in this issue of McClure's—now on the news-stands. The greatest story of Mary Roberts Rinehart's notable career.

A breathless, thrilling drama crowded with action—climax succeeds climax, with no hint of the unguessable end. And an absorbing love story too.

No magazine ever paid such a price for a serial. Altogether the most important fiction event of 1921.

Don't miss one installment—don't wait a day to get your copy from the fast-emptying news-stands.

Some of the other features in this great number are:

LINCOLN AS EXHIBIT B. By Harvey O'Higgins and Edward H. Reede, M.D. An amazing revelation of Lincoln's secret mind—a brilliant, audacious analysis.

THE WASTED GENERATION, by Owen Johnson, hardly past its opening phases, is already acclaimed as his supreme novel.

LYONS AND MISS MOUSE, by Royal Brown, in which the Prince unexpectedly discovers Cinderella working in the advertising department.

THE SIGNED MASTERPIECE, by Frederick Irving Anderson, is that elusive detective tale everybody has wished the magazines would print.

A MATTER OF MEDICINE, by Robert Husted Chambers (incidentally, son of Robert W.). A new author with a refreshingly new bag of tricks.

THE COMING OF GOWF, by P. G. Wodehouse, is farce of the wildest kind—a gorgeous bit of nonsense—comic opera without songs or music.

THE WILLS OF GOD, by Herbert Kaufman. The concentrate of a bookshelf in a single page. A ringing challenge to every pessimist and quitter.

SHEEP FLOCKS OF U. S. FALLING OFF, CENSUS SHOWS

Use of "Shoddy" and Low Wool Prices Blamed.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Mary's little lamb is losing in favor on the American farm. Australian fleeces, New Zealand mutton, use of shoddy in "all wool" clothing, the dropping of the bottom out of the wool market, the encroachment of agriculture upon the ranges, and other factors have depleted the American flocks.

Figures issued last night by the bureau of the census tell the story. On Jan. 1, 1920, the sheep on farms numbered 34,984,524. On April 15, 1919, the flocks numbered 52,447,861. On its face it looks like a drop of 17,463,000, or about 33 per cent. It's not as bad as all that, however, for the 1920 census as of January was taken too early to include any spring lambs, while the 1919 census, as of April, included 12,835,815 lambs born between Jan. 1 and April 15.

But There's 9 Per Cent Decrease.

But even excluding these 1919 lambs, the figures show a decrease of 4,659,500 sheep between 1919 and 1920, or some 9 per cent. The census bureau says the real decrease in the flocks, after making due allowance for the change of dates in enumerating, lies considerably higher than this, but less than the indicated drop of 17,463,000.

Other animals on farms have increased in number. The number of horses on farms Jan. 1, 1920, was 20,142,455 and on April 15, 1919, it was 19,833,113.

Cattle on farms during the ten years increased from 61,803,866 in April, 1910, to 66,810,836 on Jan. 1, 1920. It indicates a growth of 5,006,970, but the real growth is much larger, for the 1910 figures included 7,800,000 spring calves.

Wool Sold at Half Cost.

Meanwhile wool is still in the doldrums into which it slipped the year after the armistice, when Europe unloaded vast Australian and New Zealand holdings on the world's markets. Wool is now being sold at about one-half its cost of production.

The tariff commission reported 45 cents a pound as the cost of production of western wool, exclusive of freight, and 60 cents for eastern. It is now selling for 18 to 25 cents, with small purchasing at that. Only one farmer in ten keeps sheep; and the sale of the American flocks, according to experts, could be doubled without interfering with other stock on farms.

Despite the wool glut, shoddy is still being used, and the sheep raisers are shouting more vociferously than ever for the "truth in fabric" bill to compel the stamping of textiles to show what virgin wool they contain.

In 1917, the wool growers' organization says 186,000,000 pounds of shoddy was manufactured in the United States, while in 1920, only 141,000,000 pounds of virgin, scoured wool were produced, which carries its own moral.

SHIP LINES TO LIMIT NUMBER OF IMMIGRANTS

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Steamship companies have agreed to limit the number of immigrants they will bring into American ports each month to the average capacities of the ports as fixed by the immigration authorities, W. W. Husband, commissioner general of immigration, announced today.

Arrivals at Ellis Island will be so controlled, Mr. Husband said, as not to exceed 1,500 a day, and probably will average about 1,000. During the rush after the war 5,000 immigrants have been handled at the island in a day.

The Greatest of All Gala Places—A Triumph for all Chicagoans—A New $750,000.00 dancing and feature temple to be erected in Chicago accessible to all CHICAGO thinks only in big figures. When it felt the need of linking the South Park System and Lincoln Park, a cost of $16,000,000.00 for the new Boulevard Link did not hinder Chicago in making this great improvement a reality. With the same foresight and public spirit, nearly $5,000,000.00 was expended on the Wrigley Building, a new landmark in Chicago, and $6,000,000.00 for the wonderful Field Museum. $75,000,000.00 will go into the new Union Station, and $85,000,000.00 into the projected Illinois Central Terminal. These great strides toward completing the City Beautiful Plan are soon to be fittingly celebrated by the coming Pageant of Progress Exposition on the Municipal Pier.

And now comes "FANTASIA," the connecting link in this great chain of progressive Chicago events. With the same civic pride, with the same appreciation of an urgent public need, this new Pleasure Palace is being planned by Chicagoans, for all Chicago people. "FANTASIA," the supreme amusement center, will be Chicago's own Edifice of Enchantment.

Shortly—even before the crisp autumn winds come to pipe us to the dance—"FANTASIA'S" portals will be flung wide to music lovers and dance devotees—a wonder spot—the show place for visitors—at 64th and Cottage Grove Avenue—accessible to all Chicago through unrivalled transportation facilities.

Looking south from the Tivoli Theatre, one will see "FANTASIA," a wondrous building, beautifully designed by J. S. Aroner, creator of America's most sumptuous motion picture theatres. Smart shops and stores will be found flanking the two streets. Within, will be found the terraced dining salon, surrounding the most soul-inspiring ballroom floor in America. Private studios for dancing instructions, special dining rooms, lounges, smoking rooms, rest rooms, a promenade of grandeur, and various other elaborate, sumptuous appointments. It will, in addition, serve an urgent need as a place for large public gatherings, conventions, and all events demanding extensive space with proper conveniences. Five thousand persons can mingle freely under its domed roof.

The enticing tables on the balcony or in the intimate loges opening upon the ballroom floor, may tempt you to sup, but you may linger on the floor, if you prefer, or along the promenade. The dining and refreshment facilities are for those who seek them—yet withal, are well within the means of every lover of the dance. In fact, a whole evening's pleasure need cost you no more than a good motion picture show.

Go where you will—gay Paris, stately London, prodigal New York—and you will find no such establishment as "FANTASIA," the newly projected Goal of Gaiety, with its dernier cri in dancing appointments.

Directed and sponsored by some of Chicago's leading business men and amusement magnates, the future of "FANTASIA" is assured, both as a financial investment and as an amusement center above reproach. Being soundly financed, "FANTASIA" will be the crowning glory of Chicago's social life.

ASKS BRUNDAGE TO PUNISH CITY HALL OFFICIALS

Accused of Assessing
Civil Service Men.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The Civil Service Reform association started after the state and city administration yesterday. The association says it has learned from its investigators that "political assessments recently have been made and collected from employees of the classified service of the city and Lincoln park."

It requested Attorney General Brundage "to institute criminal proceedings to bring to justice the parties guilty of these violations of the law, which we are informed have been gross, repeated, and open."

Assessments "Insolently Open."

The organization was formed in 1913. Its letter to the attorney general continues: "We do not recall, and our records fail to disclose, any time since 1883 when such gross violations of the civil service law have been committed as these which we are now calling to your attention, for our information indicates that these assessments for political purposes were undertaken pursuant to a comprehensive plan and were persistent, mandatory, and so insolently open and notorious as to cause extensive comment in the press and very great demoralization among large numbers of employees in the classified service of the city and the park system."

Soon after this Tribune—about May 15—printed recitals of its representatives who attended two gatherings of employees where the collector garnered in the cash. Ald. Maypole presented a resolution to the city council asking for an investigation. It was referred to the civil service committee. A subcommittee was appointed to investigate. It went to sleep immediately thereafter and is still slumbering.

"Based on a Fixed Scale."

Russell Whitman, president of the civil service association apparently has no confidence that the committee will get results he desires. The letter to the attorney general continues:

"According to our information these assessments were based upon a fixed scale or percentage of the salaries of the employees, and were exacted in a large number of cases. They were solicited by officers or employees of the city and parks, and also in many instances solicited in rooms and buildings occupied by the offending officers or employees."

"These assessments usually took the form of subscriptions to the Republican, a weekly newspaper published in the interests of the Thompson-Lundin political machine, and of subscriptions to tickets to the Thompson-Lundin political picnic to be held at Riverview park July 23."

Carries Jail Punishment.

"They are, therefore, in our opinion, assessments made for party and political purposes, with the meaning of the civil service laws. The soliciting of these assessments constitutes a violation of said act and is punishable by a fine of not less than $50 and not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding six months, or both such fine and imprisonment."

West Park Board May Improve Park Drives

The west park commissioners discussed the straightening of West End drive in Garfield park and the improvement of North Oakley boulevard between Washington boulevard and West North avenue at its meeting yesterday.

FARM AND GARDEN

FIGHTING BUGS ON VINES.

Most of the damage done to vine crops every summer is largely due to lack of efforts to control the cucumber beetle that feeds on the plants until it is too late. This insect is very abundant but it seldom appears in such large numbers that its work cannot be checked.

The plants must be protected from the beetle from the time they first break through the ground, which is usually about this time in Chicago gardens, until the entire crop has been harvested. The common striped cucumber beetle does its worst damage soon after the tender seedlings appear above the surface, but it feeds later on both foliage and fruit.

When the vine crops are planted in hills they can be protected either by covering them with cheesecloth or mosquito netting or spraying them with lead arsenate. Where there are not more than a dozen hills, as is the case in the average small garden, the surest and best plan is to cover each hill with a good grade of mosquito netting.

Any sort of a frame to prevent the cloth from touching the plants may be used. Saw barrel hoops in two, sharpen the ends, cross them so they will be at right angles to each other and drive them in the ground. Stretch the cloth over the hoops and weight the edges down with dirt and stones. This must be done carefully, for the beetles will go under the edge of the netting. Two wires crossed over the hills in the form of croquet arches may be used instead of barrel hoops.

Melons and cucumbers planted in rows may be protected in this way by driving stakes in the rows and placing a 2x1 inch strip on top to serve as a ridge pole to support the covering.

In large patches where it is not practical to cover the plants, lead arsenate is generally used. Avoid using strong solutions on the young plants that are just coming up. Two pounds of the powdered lead arsenate in fifty gallons of water is about the right strength for cucumber beetles and similar chewing insects, such as the cabbage worm and Colorado potato beetle.

GYPSY ELOPERS TRAPPED; AND NOW—REVENGE!

A Bit of City's Life Just Like Fiction.

John Stevens of 941 Milwaukee avenue, seventh son of a seventh son and reigning head of a Russian gypsy organization, was proud of his daughter Anna, 16, and the belle of gypsytown. According to Anna, he was so proud of her that he asked $3,000 of each suit for her hand. Anna didn't like that—and besides, there was George Nicholas, a hard working restaurateur.

Just Like Fiction.

And so, as in ancient times, she and George concocted a plan. They would get three brawny men who would pose as police, storm the Stevens citadel with Nicholas, and capture the fair Anna.

It happened Monday afternoon. Nicholas, his sweetheart, and his three accomplices vanished in a taxicab, and the Stevens home there was confusion.

That night Stevens told the police his daughter had been kidnapped and with her had gone $300 of her brother's savings. Would the police please find her?

Revenge!
Last night Detective Sergeants Smith, Piper, Welling, and Essig were standing at Maxwell and Halsted streets. They saw an automobile and in it a man and a smiling woman—Nicholas and Anna.

Both were placed in jail. "I love him—Anna wailed. 'I didn't take no money—that's my father's dough. I'll get me even, that I will. Just watch me.'"

JOHN GRIFFITHS SUBPENAED FOR BUILDING PROBE

John Griffiths, head of the John Griffiths & Son company, and one of the most prominent members of the Building Construction Employers' association, was served with a subpoena to appear before the Dailley committee next Tuesday by Detective Sergeants Noonan and De Mar yesterday, while he sat in Judge Landis' court listening to the arbitration proceedings.

As far as could be learned no indictments were voted by the special grand jury yesterday. G. B. Hammer of Marshall & Fox; C. H. Lott, owner of the Parkway and Webster hotels, and Ben Lindheimer, son of Jacob Lindheimer, assistant county treasurer, were among the witnesses called before the grand jury yesterday.

FIVE SCIENCES PAY MME. CURIE HIGHEST HONORS

Radium Finder Overcome
as Medal Is Awarded.

The highest honors of the American Chemical society were accorded to Mme. Marie Sklodowska Curie, discoverer of radium, last night at a dinner in the Congress hotel. Scientists of note representing chemistry, physics, geology, astronomy, and medicine paid tribute to her and told how their work had been advanced through her discovery.

The Willard Gibbs medal, which is awarded annually to scientists in honor of America's most noted chemist and pioneer in the field of physical chemistry, was awarded to Mme. Curie by the society. R. A. Millikan and T. C. Chamberlain, University of Chicago; E. B. Frost, Yerkes observatory, and W. A. Pusey of the Institute of Medicine.

Stieglitz Presents Medal.
Mme. Curie was applauded as she entered, leaning heavily on the arms of two members of the committee. The presentation of the medal was made by Prof. Julius Stieglitz of the University of Chicago.

The first award of the medal was made to Svante Arrhenius, again a great pioneer who brought into the world of science a theory which has made it possible to express great masses of facts in a few simple quantitative relations," said Prof. Stieglitz. But greater even than the works of Arrhenius, than the works of Gibbs, have been, madama, your own contributions to the world of science—for your discoveries at last turned the key in the lock behind which the most interesting and fundamental secret of nature had been hidden—the secret of the structure of atoms, of which the whole world is composed.

Overcome with emotion, Mme. Curie rose and accepted the medal. In almost inaudible tones she spoke her gratitude and then launched upon a technical description of her work which led to the discovery of radium.

Given U. of C. Degree.
During the afternoon Mme. Curie was the guest of honor and was given the degree of doctor of science at the University of Chicago convocation. She had luncheon as the guest of President and Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson at their home and later visited several science buildings at the university. The degree was conferred by Robert Millikan, professor of physics.

Mme. Curie will receive an honorary degree this morning at the convocation exercises of Northwestern university. She will be the luncheon guest of Mrs. George S. Bridge of 570 Milburn avenue, Evanston, during which time her daughters will be entertained at luncheon by the co-eds at Willard hall.

Mme. Curie will be given a reception at 4 p. m. by the Polish women of Chicago at the Roman Catholic Union hall, Milwaukee avenue and Augusta street. She will leave for Buffalo at 8 p. m.

ART INSTITUTE MAY RECEIVE ART OF MRS. KIMBALL

Whether the $20,000 art collection of Mrs. Evaline M. Kimball is to go to the Art Institute will be known within the next two days, when the will of the late piano merchant's widow will be admitted to probate. Her treasures, which include numerous old masters, constitute one of the finest private collections in the United States.

Mrs. Kimball did not speak at a time regarding the disposal of her paintings," said Mrs. Warren Salisbury, her niece. "I do not know if she has bequeathed them to the art institute."

Attorney John H. Couffer, conservator of the estate, declined to commit himself.

Mrs. Kimball, who died Monday at the age of 80 years, will be buried today. Twenty-three prominent Chicagoans comprise the list of active pallbearers.

Biscuit Company Cuts Prices on All Products

In line with its previously declared "normalcy" policy, the National Biscuit company yesterday announced a sweeping reduction of the wholesale prices of its products in both package and bulk form. The reduction, the fourth to be made by the company this year, follows a recent drop in prices of raw materials. The new scale, officials say, is so low it may be expected to stand for many months.

HOW TO START THE DAY WRONG

MEN ARE LIKE THAT

BY CLARA E. LAUGHLIN

XV.—A COURT REHEARSAL.

Millie Baird was watching Sallie in a kind of puzzled wonder. What had come over the girl? The situation was a curious one, not without humor; and Sallie was enjoying it, in her own quiet way. If she had shown, that Saturday morning, any apathy about the party in prospect, Mrs. Baird would have been quick to charge it against Jim. But Sallie was eager and happy; and her mother forebore to ask her why, lest Sallie give the credit to Jim.

"What do you make of it?" Linda asked her mother. "I don't know what to make of it," Mrs. Baird replied. She and Linda were assigned a room together, at Jay Sudduth's, and Sallie to a connecting room, sharing their bath.

"There's an Ethiopian in the woodpile, somewhere, I'll wager," Linda asserted. "I'm afraid so. She can't have broken with him, or she wouldn't be so full of zest. He's put her up to something; and for the life of me, I can't guess what it is."

"I know. And if we asked her she wouldn't tell. You see, she hasn't volunteered a bit of information about what she did last night, what conclusion they came to. He evidently told her not to. You know it isn't like Sallie to be so sphinxy. But he just winds her around his finger. I never saw the like of it."

Millie Baird sighed deeply. "And there's no use talking to her about it," she said. "She just won't see it. If we can just keep her going ahead with these plans, I'm sure I'll all come out right. There'll be everything in London to make her forget about that fellow. And if, when she comes back, there's Uncle Sam's Girl, well, I say let's not worry about it any more just now."

Linda's brow wrinkled and her eyebrows arched questioningly. "She seems so—but is she?" she replied. "That's what's worrying me. I don't believe she's so converted as you think. It isn't natural. What's making me anxious is that I'm afraid she's got some other plan up her sleeve."

"I don't suppose that she is going to marry him, and then turn all this down?" "I'm sorry," Linda answered, "but that's the way it looks to me. But now don't you get all wrought up about it. That won't do any good, and it may do a lot of harm. Sallie is of age. You can't do anything to restrain her by moral suasion—and you've got to be careful how you use that, or it may drive her the other way. The one thing that will keep her from marrying him is her reluctance to hurt us. The more we badger her the less reluctant she'll be. The thing for us to do is to let her see how much our hearts are bound up in these plans for her. That will make it harder for her to break them. But at the same time, I'm going to watch a bit, if I can, and see what she's up to when she's not with us."

"I don't know what object Walt can have in putting her up to marry Jim Hale," Mrs. Baird said, complacently. "Linda uttered a sharp exclamation of impatience. 'He may not have had any object,' she replied. 'He may just stupidly have thought it was the thing to do. Or he may have been mean about it and done it to start something. I'm sure I don't know. But you and I have got to manage this affair without any help from anybody.'"

"But isn't it tragic that things should come to such a pass? My child's welfare is the dearest thing on earth to me—it is almost the only thing I have to live for. Yet I have to scheme and plan to defend it for her, against the counsels of a perfect stranger who has only selfish motives! Life is certainly very, very queer."

Sallie had a new evening gown which she was wearing for the first time that night. It was a peach color, gorgeously simple, and exquisitely becoming. Good taste, and particularly an aptitude for the appropriate thing, characterized all three of the Baird women. They knew how to do and how not to overdo—and the latter is so rare a knowledge, nowadays, as to be quite distinguishing.

But something more than the family quality was in Sallie; she had a gift all her own, in the matter of clothes.

Her gown had not a fleck of trimming; not a bead, nor a thread of embroidery, not a glint of metal thread nor even a cobweb of lace. But about the waist was a narrow more ribbon of a kind of robin's egg blue, knotted simply and falling below the overlapping points which made the irregular bottom of her frock.

Gartrath almost gasped when he saw it. He was more than a bit bored with sweeter girls and blazer girls and their sorts. He wondered if he couldn't put over something different—not an old fashioned girl, but a new fashioned girl with the kind of old fashioned sentiment in her appeal that the bit-of-blue-ribbon girl used to have for our fathers. "The Gartrath Girl." Why might she not be as popular and as influential as the Gibson Girl had once been?

He confided this hope to Mrs. Baird and Linda, thereby vastly increasing the dizziness of their outlook upon the future. They could see Sallie the center of a vogue, launching this and that by wearing it and being pictured in it. This meant royal family privileges for them all, in those inner shrines of fashion art which now they dared not approach even for a glimpse.

"You could do it, I've no doubt," Mrs. Baird said to Gartrath in a tone of perfect faith. "Well," he replied with what he considered becoming modesty, "not alone, perhaps; but with all this cooperation—"

Sallie, across the big hall, was talking to Sudduth and Corydon. Suddenly Corydon threw back his head, and shook out a loud roar of laughter. "Everybody," he said, "stopped, looked, and listened."

Sallie, it appeared, had timidly confided to them that she was disturbed by the idea of dragging the prince into "reading his kindly courtesy."

"Bless your life!" Corydon cried, joyfully, "that's what prices are for! Especially in England, where they're not permitted to interfere much, if any, with the government, but are worth millions of pounds a year to trade. A general young gentleman like this prince is worth more to British industry than ten treaties of Versailles. And they know it, and he knows it."

Mrs. Fairweather nodded assentingly. She was gorgeous, this evening, in a sumptuous white and silver brocade, lightly touched with bits of black, and enhanced by floating, trailing black tulle which formed twin trains. "That's right," she said, and everybody knew what she meant; that it wasn't the sense of humor she was agreeing to, but the royal family's understanding of what was expected of them.

And then she began to tell what plans she had already made for Sallie's presentation at Buckingham Palace.

"This," she said, looking about the great hall, "would not be a bad place to practice that awful backing out. Let's do it, after dinner. I'll be lots of fun."

They did. Nobody in the company except herself had ever been at any court. She was sole director—assigned roles, rehearsed everybody, and herself played Queen Mary. All sorts of silk curtains and other aithand props were impressed into service as court trains, veils, feathers, and the like. There was lively bidding among the men for the Prince of Wales' part, and general hilarity when it fell to Larry Quinn, who liked to consider himself an Irish Republican; but he played it with good grace and a lot of cleverness.

It was a jolly evening. Jay Sudduth said he hadn't had such a good time "in a long time."

"It's all like a lovely fairy tale," Millie Baird declared, ecstatically, to her daughters, when they were retiring. "How does it feel, Sallie, darling, to be the center of such a wonderful story?"

"I'm not the center of it, mummy, dear," Sallie announced, smiling. "I'm just the mannequin that all you clever people hang your ideas on. But it's great fun to be even that, of course!"

Geary Hanging
Delayed Month
By High Court

Neither Carl Wanderer nor Gene
Geary will hang Friday.

The state supreme court at Springfield yesterday issued an order delaying the execution of Geary until July 22, and at the same time denied the mandamus on Judge David to compel him to expunge the record of the order he entered granting Carl Wanderer a jury trial for sanity, thus delaying his execution.

In the Geary matter the Supreme court ordered the state's attorney to file a petition answering that of Geary's attorney relative to the sanity matter by June 18. This indicates that the higher court will review the sanity proceeding recently held before Chief Justice Charles A. McDonald and of Geary's right to have a jury impaneled to determine his sanity.

In refusing the mandamus in the Wanderer case the Supreme court left jurisdiction in the hands of Judge David.

FRAUD SCHEME IN "HOME SELLING" CHARGED IN SUIT

Realty Operator Accused of Swindling Hundreds.

John H. Gelhardt, a real estate operator with an elaborate suite of offices in the Woods Theater building, was charged with operating a scheme to defraud in a suit filed in the Municipal court yesterday by Attorneys H. M. Ashton and C. W. C. Armstrong. Gelhardt is alleged to have sold hundreds of persons vacant property under promises that he would erect homes for them after a small amount had been paid down.

Edward Gentile, a commercial artist living in Franklin Park, is complainant. V. A. Quinn, sales manager for Gelhardt, and Joseph A. Holupch, owner of the subdivision in which a lot was sold to Gentile, were named as co-defendants with Gelhardt.

Charges in the Bill.

Gentile, the bill states, went to offices of the Gelhardt organization on Dec. 21, 1920, and was met by Quinn. Quinn, it is alleged, showed Gentile a photograph of an eight room house in Edson Park and represented that if he would pay down $282.50 in cash, the Gelhardt organization would erect such a house for him for $5,500 on the lot he had elected to buy.

The bill states that a contract for the lot was delivered Gelhardt on Dec. 14, 1920, by Quinn, who told him that a contract for the house would be given him in a few days and that his home would be ready for occupancy by May 1 of this year.

These agreements Gentile alleges were a scheme to defraud, and he says that he has now learned that Quinn never intended to erect a home for him and that Gelhardt and Holupch were aware of all these conditions.

Answers "Blind" Ad.

"I answered a blind advertisement for a home," said Gentile. "A few days later a Gelhardt salesman came to my door. He told me the Gelhardt organization would build me a home, showed me an elaborate catalogue from which I might pick the kind of a home I desired, and said I could get it simply by paying a small amount down on the lot."

"Later I went to Gelhardt's office and Quinn went over the whole thing again with me, and told me if I paid down the $282.50 I could move into my home on May 1. Why, they even talked about putting everything all around my lot and fixing everything up fine."

"I started for them to start work on my home, in the meantime, they went on and they did nothing. Finally after May 1 I went in and demanded my money back. They told me to get out of the office and threatened to throw me out if I didn't go."

Others Make Complaints.

Among other customers of Gelhardt are Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Quigley, 414 South Karlov avenue. He is an inspector at the Western Electric company. The Quigleys pay $50 a month rent for a small apartment and have two children.

"We lived in Berwyn when we answered Gelhardt's ad," said Mrs. Quigley. "We had a salesman, a salesman named Stanton came to us from Gelhardt. He showed us pictures of homes and we picked one out. We signed a contract for a lot on Aug. 28, 1920, and he promised to have our home ready Nov. 1."

"We paid $166.50 down and have paid $70 since in monthly payments. Recently Mr. Quigley's wages were cut and we were forced to stop the payments. We couldn't afford to make them any more and pay rent, too. We were told we could get into our own home and pay for it like paying rent."

Gelhardt Shifts Blame.

Confronted with the charges, Gelhardt shifted the burden on to the shoulders of his salesmen and sales managers.

"Since I've been in this business—which is about three years—I have constantly fought with my salesmen and sales managers to sell their homes. 'I have not had any houses to sell and I've repeatedly told them to make no misrepresentations. I have pointed out to their heads to go out and sell well known property. But salesmen will make promises to get commissions. Whenever I have discovered any man on my staff promising to build houses, I have promptly fired him.'"

Gelhardt's former salesmen, now working for other real estate concerns, tell a different story. They state they were instructed by Gelhardt's salesmen to "promise anything and everything you get the 15 per cent down," and that Gelhardt himself on various occasions told them he would build homes for his customers.

GEARY HANGING DELAYED MONTH BY HIGH COURT

Neither Carl Wanderer nor Gene
Geary will hang Friday.

The state supreme court at Springfield yesterday issued an order delaying the execution of Geary until July 22, and at the same time denied the mandamus on Judge David to compel him to expunge the record of the order he entered granting Carl Wanderer a jury trial for sanity, thus delaying his execution.

In the Geary matter the Supreme court ordered the state's attorney to file a petition answering that of Geary's attorney relative to the sanity matter by June 18. This indicates that the higher court will review the sanity proceeding recently held before Chief Justice Charles A. McDonald and of Geary's right to have a jury impaneled to determine his sanity.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

That lively ball game another exhibition of leaping fences and crashing hits was about the only thing that kept the Boston Braves from being completely out of the game of the day. The ball did most of its leaping for Boston, three home runs and a flock of doubles assisting in piling up a count of 10 to 2.

Walter Cruise, over the right wall and the other a stinging liner to center field that traveled so fast that Barber couldn't move thirty feet to get in front of it. It ripped its way clear to the far corner of the lot and still had so much life that it tore its way through the screened and picketed fence.

Dangerous to Handle Smashes.

The other four bases was a drive over the right wall by Capt. Southworth. Several times infielders narrowly missed a sentence in the hospital as red hot smashes shot through or past them.

Boss Evers selected young Mr. Cheever to hurl the game, but he was so terribly abused that he was taken in the midst of a fifth inning attack that began to look like a cleanup. Percy Jones came forth and took the job with Cruise up and one on the base. Cruise opened on the new pitcher by crashing his second homer, the one to center field. However, Jones stuck to the finish, taking a lot of punishment with great gameness. It takes a game man to be a pitcher these days.

Cub Wreckers Are Stopped.

Big John Scott, with a speedy right handed curve, slugged for Boston and never was in trouble. He was charged a few times, for the Cubs were hitting the ball, getting ten blows, some of which were a bit hot.

The Cubs didn't bat any one over the home plate until the new pitcher. In the sixth the Cubs started what looked like a rally and Boss Evers called out his wrecking crew, but the wreckers were stopped with only one man counting.

Powell's scratch single, followed by Cruise's homer with two out, sent in a pair of counters for Boston in the first. Southworth got his homer in the third with no one on, then in the fifth Scott himself started the big attack with a double.

Braves Bat Around.

The boys batted clear around, knocking out Cheever and getting five runs on five blows, three of which were two batters, one a single, and one a homer. Continued awing of Jones' pitching added two more, one in the sixth and one in the seventh, and by that time the folks were leaving the park.

REDEYES, 7; DODGERS, 2.

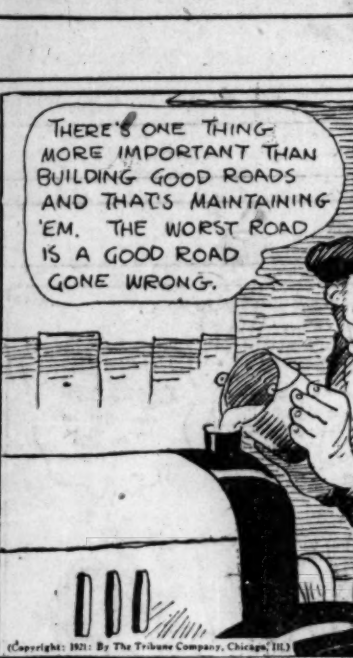

Cincinnati, O., June 14.—Redeyes' hits of River were kept so well scattered that they failed to net runs, except in two innings, and Cincinnati won, 7 to 2, in the fifth Scott himself started the big attack with a double.

PIRATES, 8; PHILIES, 3.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 14.—Pittsburgh won its third successive game from Philadelphia, 8 to 3 today, being aided materially by home hits, and Rube's four wild pitches. The American League defeated the Indianapolis A. B. C. S. 2 to 1 in a thirteen inning game at Scholastic park yesterday in the Negro National League. The pitching and fielding in the pinch by both sides shot off several rallies and forced the game into extra innings. Score: A. GIANTS: AB R H E P SH P. 2 to 1. A. B. C. S.: AB R H E P SH P. 1 to 0. LOAN SECURITY PROVES BIG SNAG IN CREDIT POOLS

BY O. A. MATHER.

In the last few months, while the process of readjustment from war and post-war conditions has been proceeding, a host of schemes for extending credit to those seeking it have been promulgated. Some of these proposals have been almost purely political, while others have been only semi-banking proposals.

Congress has shown with invocations to the government to furnish funds to the farmers, the cotton growers, the stock raisers, the wool producers and others through the treasury and the federal reserve system. Banking pools have been formed to make loans to various interests and industries and large banking corporations have been formed for financing exports of American commodities. The federal war finance corporation has been revived for similar purposes.

Leaders Must Have Security. Frankly, the experience of most of these credit agencies has not been fortuitous. It is almost axiomatic that in order to secure credit, whether by individuals, banks, financial groups or government agencies, financial institutions merely act as custodians of private funds, and by the security given by their lending agencies are putting out funds for which they are strictly responsible.

Thus where great banking pools have been formed in accordance with good practice as to security, the credit of the pooled funds has been put out into use. Where good banking practice has been overstepped, the institutions have suffered.

The same may be said of the foreign trade financing corporations. In individual practice nearly every bank has had its experience in making loans on high-priced commodities, whose subsequent shrinkage in value has left the borrower unable to repay. There is no reason to expect that future credit pools will afford any credit in a situation where all the world seeks money and only a part is able to make repayment.

Credit On Again Reduced. Further reductions in the price of credit have been announced yesterday. All grades quoted in Pittsburgh were reduced 25 cents a barrel, the new prices ranging from $1 to $1.75. The Texas company reduced Gulf Coast and Caddo heavy crude oil to 90 cents, compared with the former price of $1. The Ohio oil company also made a cut of 25 cents a barrel, new prices ranging from $1 to $1.25.

Several more companies announced discounts or reductions of dividends yesterday. The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad deferred action on dividends for the first half of the year on both the preferred and common stocks. The previous semi-annual dividends were 14 and 15 per cent respectively on the preferred and common shares. Directors of Loew's Inc. passed the current quarterly dividend of 50 cents. The Central Terminal Sugar company failed to take action on the current quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, which has been 14 per cent. The Milwaukee oil company reduced its quarterly dividend from 4 to 3 per cent. The Prairie Oil and Gas company declared an extra dividend of 1 per cent instead of 1 per cent as heretofore.
